

Bhotekoshi River Rafting - 2 Days

Bhote Koshi River rafting in Nepal is a thrilling activity with tough rapids and breathtaking scenery. The river, located near the Nepal-Tibet border, is well-known for its steep descents and is categorized as a class IV-V, attracting expert rafters looking for an adrenaline rush. The best rafting seasons are post-monsoon (September to November) and pre-monsoon (March to May), when river levels are at their highest and the weather is most pleasant. The tour usually lasts many days, mixing terrifying rapids like Frog in a Blender and Gerbil in the Plumbing with breathtaking Himalayan landscape. Rafting businesses assure safety by providing professional guides, pre-trip information, and appropriate equipment. Bhote Koshi River rafting, which is accessible from Kathmandu, offers not only a thrilling experience but also an opportunity to immerse oneself in the natural splendor of the

ITINERARY IN DETAIL

Day 1: Drive to Khadichour from Kathmandu then raft to Sukete Village.

We will start our trip early in the morning and take a 3 hrs drive to Khadichour from Kathmandu. After reaching Khadichour(which is our rafting point), rafting employees will be ready for you and provide you with all the necessary equipments and a short instructions about paddling and safety measures. Now you will begin your rafting journey downstream, navigating through exciting rapids like Frog in a Blender, Gerbil in the Plumbing, and other thrilling sections of the Bhotekoshi River. Our adventure will finally end once we reach Sukete village where we will set up our camp and rest for the day.

Day 2: Raft from Sukete village to Lamoshanghu then drive back to Kathmandu.

Following our morning breakfast, we will again resume our rafting trip from Sukete village to Lamoshanghu, encountering more rapids and admiring the spectacular surroundings. Once we get at Lamoshanghu, we will relax for a bit before returning back to Kathmandu.
