ITINERARY IN DETAIL

Day 1: Arrival in Kathmandu (1,350 meters/4,429 feet)

Your adventure begins in Kathmandu, Nepal's vibrant capital. Upon arrival at Tribhuvan International Airport (KTM), our representative from Trek Mania Nepal will greet you and whisk you away to your comfortable hotel in the heart of the city.

After some refreshment, the afternoon is yours to explore. Immerse yourself in the rich cultural tapestry of Nepal, visiting historical landmarks like Durbar Square and sacred temples like Swayambhunath (Monkey Temple). In the evening, we'll host a welcome dinner where you'll meet your fellow trekkers and guides. This is a great opportunity to ask questions and get to know the team.

Day 2: Kathmandu (1,350 meters/4,429 feet) to Pokhara (827 meters/2,713 feet)

The next day, a scenic flight from Kathmandu to Pokhara, the gateway to the Annapurna region, awaits. Witness breathtaking aerial views of the Himalayas as you fly. Upon arrival in Pokhara, check into your lakeside hotel and take in the stunning views of Machhapuchhre (Fishtail Peak) reflected on the serene Phewa Lake. The afternoon is free for you to explore the charming lakeside town. Rent a boat and explore Phewa Lake, visit the International Mountain Museum to learn about Himalayan exploration, or simply relax and soak in the mountain atmosphere.

Day 3: Pokhara (827 meters/2,713 feet) to Hille (1,593 meters/5,226 feet)

After breakfast, our adventure on the ground begins! We'll take a scenic drive along the Modi Khola Valley, enjoying picturesque villages and terraced fields. Our journey continues on a moderate uphill trek to Hille, a charming village nestled amidst lush rhododendron forests. As we ascend, keep an eye out for a diverse array of birdlife, including pheasants, kites, and even the Impeyan pheasant, Nepal's national bird. In the evening, enjoy a delicious local meal and relax at a comfortable guesthouse in Hille.

Day 4: Hille (1,593 meters/5,226 feet) to Dobang (2,600 meters/8,530 feet)

The trail on day four takes us through dense rhododendron forests, bursting with vibrant colors during the spring season. The path gradually ascends, offering glimpses of the Annapurna range as we gain altitude. We'll eventually reach Dobang, a quaint village with traditional stone houses and stunning mountain views. In the afternoon, you can explore the surroundings and learn about the local way of life from the friendly villagers.

Day 5: Dobang (2,600 meters/8,530 feet) to Machhapuchhre Base Camp (MBC) (3,700 meters/12,139 feet)

The trek on day five continues its steady climb, passing through meadows adorned with wildflowers. You might encounter yaks and herders grazing their livestock in the high pastures. As we near MBC, the majestic Machhapuchhre (Fishtail Peak) dominates the horizon, offering a truly awe-inspiring spectacle. We'll set up camp at MBC, enjoying the unique atmosphere and the breathtaking panorama of the surrounding peaks.

Day 6: Machhapuchhre Base Camp (MBC) (3,700 meters/12,139 feet) - Acclimatization Day

This day is crucial for acclimatization, allowing your body to adjust to the increasing altitude. To aid this process, we'll participate in short hikes in the surrounding areas, enjoying the scenic beauty and diverse flora and fauna. You can also visit the nearby icefall and learn basic mountaineering skills from our experienced guides. Proper acclimatization is essential for a safe and successful summit push on Dhampus Peak.

Day 7: Machhapuchhre Base Camp (MBC) (3,700 meters/12,139 feet) to Bagarchhap (4,030 meters/13,221 feet)

On day seven, we continue our ascent, following a well-defined trail through alpine meadows carpeted with colorful wildflowers. The air gets thinner as we gain altitude, so take things slow and listen to your body. We'll eventually reach Bagarchhap, a higher campsite with even more spectacular views of the Himalayas. Here, nestled amidst the mountains, we'll spend the night, preparing for the exciting summit push on the following day.

Day 8: Bagarchhap (4,030 meters/13,221 feet) to Dhampus Peak Base Camp (5,150 meters/16,900 feet)

Day eight presents a challenging yet rewarding ascent. The trail leads us through moraine terrain, requiring careful navigation over rocks and scree. The stunning scenery, with towering peaks all around, will motivate you as you make your way towards Dhampus Peak Base Camp. Reaching this high camp brings you a sense of accomplishment and offers breathtaking panoramic views of the surrounding mountains. Here, we'll set up camp for the night, preparing for the final push to the summit in the early hours of the following day.

Day 9: Dhampus Peak Base Camp (5,150 meters/16,900 feet) to Dhampus Peak Summit (6,012 meters/19,724 feet) - Descent to Yak Kharka (4,930 meters/16,174 feet)

Yahooooo!!! This is the Summit day!

An early start is crucial to make the most of favorable weather conditions. Headlamps will illuminate our path as we ascend steep snow slopes, utilizing crampons and ice axes for safety. The pre-dawn darkness will gradually give way to a spectacular sunrise, painting the Himalayas in a kaleidoscope of colors. The sense of achievement upon reaching the summit of Dhampus Peak (6,012 meters) will be unparalleled. Take a moment to soak in the breathtaking panoramic views encompassing Dhaulagiri, Annapurna, and Manaslu massifs. After capturing unforgettable memories with photos, we'll carefully begin our descent back to Dhampus Peak Base Camp. From there, we'll continue down to Yak Kharka, a lower camp, for well-deserved rest and celebration.

Day 10: Yak Kharka (4,930 meters/16,174 feet) to Marpha (2,670 meters/8,760 feet)

Feeling rejuvenated after a successful summit push, day ten involves a descent through a varied landscape. The trail winds its way through moraine fields, offering glimpses of glaciers hanging precariously from the mountains above. We'll eventually reach the charming village of Marpha, renowned for its apple orchards and delicious local specialties like apple cider and brandy. Spend the afternoon exploring the village and indulging in the local delicacies before settling in for the night at a comfortable guesthouse.

Day 11: Marpha (2,670 meters/8,760 feet) to Jomsom (2,710 meters/8,891 feet) - Pokhara (827 meters/2,713 feet)

On day eleven, we'll take a scenic drive along the Kali Gandaki Gorge, the deepest gorge in the world. Marvel at the towering cliffs that flank the river as we wind our way towards Jomsom, a bustling town known as the gateway to Mustang.

In Jomsom, you can explore the lively marketplace or visit the Muktinath Temple, a sacred pilgrimage site for both Hindus and Buddhists. Depending on the time and weather conditions, we might even have the option of taking a short flight back to Pokhara, offering stunning aerial views of the Annapurna and Dhaulagiri ranges. If a flight isn't possible, we'll enjoy a comfortable drive back to Pokhara, where you can relax and reminisce about your incredible achievements.

Day 12: Pokhara (827 meters/2,713 feet) to Kathmandu

On the final day, after a delicious breakfast, you'll have some free time in Pokhara to explore further or shop for souvenirs. Depending on your flight schedule, we'll then transfer you to the airport for your domestic flight back to Kathmandu and rest and relax in Kathmandu with farewell dinner by TMN in the evening.

Day 13: Departure Day

Today we bid farewell to Nepal with a heart full of unforgettable memories from Dhampus Peak Climbing venture.
